YOUR PERSONAL HOROSCOPE

A hard-working person who is generally well liked and admired. You are independent, and are well known for your individuality. You intuitively gravitate towards tasks to which you are well suited.

You have an ability to reason towards the logical in all you think. You do find it easier to think than to do anything else, better than most other people for that matter. You have a computer like memory that allows you to be able to assimilate a large amount of information and then present it to the masses in a more understandable manner. You are very good at expressing this type of thing but when it comes to something close to your heart, such as love or compassion, you find it hard to let the other person know and can thus appear to be aloof and cold. You have a tendency to get out of sorts and become 'picky' with those around you. You can be argumentative and critical of others. You spend most of your time separating the wheat from the chaff and most of your life trying to take away the useless from the useful, thus working your way to a state of subconscious purity.
